

A timeline to help us:

Key vocabulary to help us:

king	queen	reign
before	past	present
now	different	significant
moat	battlements	drawbridge
defend	protect	monument
monarch	change	castle
then	attack

How do we find out about the past?

We can find out about the past by:

- looking at and reading non-fiction books
- searching the internet
- talking to people who were around at the time that we want to learn about
- watching video clips or TV shows about the time in history we want to find out about
- visiting museums
- looking at photographs
- looking at objects from the past

Castles and Palaces

Kings and queens live in castles and palaces. They were:

- built for important people, their families and servants
- built to protect important people from attack
- often built high up on a hill so that any attackers could be seen
- often very big to show how much money the important person had
- designed to launch weapons to attack the enemy

The present-day

King Charles III is the present-day king of England. He came to the throne in 2022 after the death of his mother, Queen Elizabeth II. Queen Elizabeth reigned for 70 years, meaning she is the United Kingdom's longest-reigning monarch. The castles and palaces that were significant in the Queen's reign were:

- Buckingham Palace
- Windsor Castle
- Balmoral Castle in Scotland

These are royal residences that the king is thought to spend time in now he is the reigning monarch.

The past

These lessons will look back almost 1000 years to the reign of the first King of England, William I. He reigned in the year 1066 after winning the Battle of Hastings. He is also known as William the Conqueror. Between William I and the present-day King Charles III, there have been 41 other Kings and Queens of England. Some of the most famous ones are Queen Elizabeth I and Queen Victoria.

